Aulacigastridae from Northeastern of Brazil, with the description of four new species

Geniana A. REIS, Alessandra RUNG & Francisco LIMEIRA-DE-OLIVEIRA*

Dear Dr. LIMEIRA DE OLIVEIRA

Following the recommendation of the topical and section editors, I have the pleasure to accept your paper for publication in the European Journal of Taxonomy.

The text and tables of your last version are considered to be final and have been transferred to the production team. From now on, please do not upload any new version in the Nestor system, unless you are specifically asked to do so. Any further (small) changes on the manuscript should be done at the proofreading stage.

May I ask you to fully collaborate with the production process leading up to the publication of your manuscript, which has been accepted provided you comply with the requests of the production department regarding technical issues such as correct language, figures of sufficient technical quality and clear information on type depositories. You are also asked to return the corrected proofs within the requested period. Failure to comply with the above conditions may prevent your manuscript from being published, as both scientific and technical quality of papers published in the European Journal of Taxonomy must be of high standard.

Your manuscript is now awaiting preparation. Our production team is dealing with each paper in the order of acceptance, and we are working hard to have all papers published as rapidly as possible. One of our desk editors will contact you as soon as your manuscript enters production. However, please note that the current wait time is approximately 15 weeks. We appreciate your understanding and patience during this time.

Article acceptance

Thank you again for submitting your material to our journal.

With kindest regards

Fabio Cianferoni
